

instructions

The essay demonstrates your ability to write clearly and concisely on a selected topic and helps you distinguish yourself in your own voice. What do you want the readers of your application to know about you apart from courses, grades, and test scores? Choose the option that best helps you answer that question and write an essay of no more than 650 words, using the prompt to inspire and structure your response. Remember: 650 words is your limit, not your goal. Use the full range if you need it, but don't feel obligated to do so.

- + COVID-19 Prompt (optional)
- + Additional Information (<650 words & optional)
- + Résumé (upload for certain schools)
- + Portfolio (for certain programs)
- + School-Specific Supplemental Materials

2024-2025 essay prompts

1. Some students have a background, identity, interest, or talent that is so meaningful they believe their application would be incomplete without it. If this sounds like you, then please share your story.
2. The lessons we take from obstacles we encounter can be fundamental to later success. Recount a time when you faced a challenge, setback, or failure. How did it affect you, and what did you learn from the experience?
3. Reflect on a time when you questioned or challenged a belief or idea. What prompted your thinking? What was the outcome?
4. Reflect on something that someone has done for you that has made you happy or thankful in a surprising way. How has this gratitude affected or motivated you?
5. Discuss an accomplishment, event, or realization that sparked a period of personal growth and a new understanding of yourself or others.
6. Describe a topic, idea, or concept you find so engaging that it makes you lose all track of time. Why does it captivate you? What or who do you turn to when you want to learn more?
7. Share an essay on any topic of your choice. It can be one you've already written, one that responds to a different prompt, or one of your own design.

COVID-19 PROMPT

for the Common App

250 WORDS

Community disruptions such as COVID-19 and natural disasters can have deep and long-lasting impacts. If you need it, this space is yours to describe those impacts. Colleges care about the effects on your health and well-being, safety, family circumstances, future plans, and education, including access to reliable technology and quiet study spaces.

Do you wish to share anything on this topic? Y/N

Please use this space to describe how these events have impacted you.

The question will be accompanied by a more detailed FAQ to help students consider the kinds of impacts they may wish to report, including illness and loss, housing and employment disruptions, and shifting family obligations.

Erdbeeren und Waldfrüchte. Don't mess it up.

It was a sweltering summer day, the sun bearing down on the asphalt streets packed with people. Erdbeeren und Waldfrüchte, I nervously rehearsed before approaching the counter. "Guten Morgen," I announced to the cashier, "Darf ich bitte ein Eis mit Erdbeeren und Waldfrüchte?"

"Drei Euro, bitte."

I fished through my wallet, looking for the silver-and-gold two-Euro coins, and paid for my ice cream cone of strawberry and wild berry (Erdbeeren und Waldfrüchte), then headed back toward the street, where my host family was waiting.

"Everything went well?" Veronika, my host mother, asked, looking to her husband, Michi, wrangling their five-year-old son, Lorenz.

"Yeah, it's good!"

"Kein mehr Englisch!" cried Lorenz, red in the face and nearly crying.

A 17-year-old boy with Chinese features, I must've stood out like a sore thumb from my all-German host family and the all-German crowd in Marienplatz.

Days earlier, my leg jittered rhythmically in Newark International Airport as I fished around my backpack, checking for the hundredth time that everything was there. I was about to fly to Germany, an experience I had dreamt of for months, and my mind was racing. I was the incoming president of German Honor Society, the kid in German class everyone asked when they forgot a grammatical convention. I was prepared.

So why did my heart jump when Lorenz said, "No more English?"

His words stuck with me for the rest of the day as I ran through every German lesson I could remember. Ever since sixth-grade, my German teachers taught with music, fun lessons on the quirks of German culture and stories from their experiences there. For six years, I'd been graded on everything I wrote and said. And I loved it. I dove into German history and culture and kept up with German news. I rallied students at the school activity fair to the German booth, growing the club to the largest it had ever been. But walking through the streets of Munich, I felt a weight on my shoulders. I didn't want to mess up.

The next morning, at the start of my internship in BMW's tax department, Mona, my boss for the next three weeks, greeted me in German and introduced me to the four tax advisors I'd work with, who also greeted me in German.

Can I do this? I took a deep breath and spoke. "Ich heiÙe Kenneth, ich bin der neue Schülerpraktikant." Their nods of understanding made me feel relieved.

I can do this: No more English.

After days of speaking nothing but German at home and at the office, I came home one afternoon to Lorenz playing in the living room. He ran over to proudly show me his Pokémon cards. After days of speaking German, Lorenz seemed comfortable with me.

Over dinner, Veronika and I discussed politics, trading news articles and cracking jokes. I almost forgot I was speaking a foreign language.

After three weeks supporting my colleagues at the office, exploring the city's labyrinth of sidewalks and hiking to breathtaking views of the Bavarian Alps with my host family, I didn't feel like I stood out anymore; I felt like I belonged.

As I got off the plane back in New Jersey, I was filled with ideas for the upcoming year of German Club: pretzel baking, traditional dances, art and architecture. My travels have taught me just how beneficial it is to be immersed in a foreign language and culture.

Working with a multinational company also showed me the sheer scale of our world's interconnectedness. A decision in Munich doesn't just affect Germany, but a web of global supply chains, connecting offices, factories and transportation hubs. I plan to study abroad during college to expand these perspectives, understanding the systems that have been built to handle our new era of globalization.

As the pandemic started, I filled my free time diving into American and British history's exciting battles, grandiose speeches and stunning turning points that captivated my imagination. But as I examined each conflict, action and decision, what amazed me was how almost every twist could be whittled down to economic causes. It began an obsession that led me to videos, articles and books. When I found an online course for AP Microeconomics, I was enticed. Just one problem: Algebra II was a prerequisite.

Yielding to my groveling, my mom bought me three months of tuition to an online platform and I was off. I breezed through the first unit without difficulty. Then the second. Then the third.

Every morning of quarantine, I'd crack open my computer and keep going. Synthetic division, exponentials, logarithms — I didn't even stop when I got to calculus. I filled three notebooks with notes and problem sets. By the end of those three months, I'd finished everything through Calculus II.

Armed with my new math toolset, the AP Economics course was filled with connections: profit maximization, utility optimization, the Lorenz curve were all connected to calculus. It helped me develop a system of examining history. Economics is history uncloaked, helping answer not only "How did we get here?" but "Where are we going?"

Economics is a powerful tool to explain decision-making, public policy and inequality. But theory has no value without connection to real-world data. I want to use mathematics to apply data-driven solutions to complex problems. I'm drawn to computational finance, a field marrying economic theories to the mathematics that drive them. By framing each decision as an optimizable task — as economics presupposes — and using mathematics to find those optima, I will help develop more efficient global systems to forge a fairer future.
